A guided visit to the Güzelyurt region of Northern Cyprus, with visits to various museums and churches; including the National Train museum, Archaeology & Nature museum, Maronite Catholic Church and St Mamas Church + Lunch – Date to be advised

The train museum was only opened in May of this year following the restoration of Güzelyurt Train Station into a Museum. First opened in 1907 the station remained operational until 1951 after which it fell into disrepair, following an extensive refurbishment programme started in 2018 the museum was officially opened on 21st May this year (2022) and has one of the last surviving original trains to run on the line between Güzelyurt and Gazimağusa.

The Güzelyurt Archeological and Natural History Museum is housed in the old palace of the bishop of Güzelyurt, with its ground floor of the museum is devoted to natural history and holds cabinets of geological samples, stuffed fish, mammals, and birds native to Cyprus. Exotic breeding migrants are represented by the elusive Eleanoras Falcon, the bright plumage of the bee-eater and pink flamingos from the salt lakes. There is also a pair of mutant lambs. A more symbolic age would have read the fate of Cyprus from these twins with two heads on one body and two bodies on one head. Upstairs there is a small archeological collection with the island's best display of Late Bronze Age white slipware and the recently discovered Ephesian Artemis.

Other floors contain pieces from Toumba Tou Skourou excavation, mostly base ring-ware and very fine examples of the white slip -milk bowl- ware, with its distinctive tattoo-like designs dated 1,600-1,500 B.C. Room V is filled with artefacts from the Classical to Byzantine period, including two fine black on red Attic Lekythos vases. Hellenistic tableware, Roman glass and yellow-glazed, and medieval sgraffito pottery. The room is dominated by the statuette of Artemis of Ephesus, carved in the 2nd century A.D. The weatherglass white body of the goddess, whose black face bears remnants of a tidy coiffure, was discovered in the Bay of Salamis in 1980. Thirty-six nipples protrude from her tightly bound dress embroidered with five rows of hieratic wild things, the guardian sphinxes and griffins customarily associated with the Great Goddess. Her protruding bottom echoes the ancient pose of the fertile mother goddess, who is flanked by two crouched guardian creatures.

If this isn't enough, no visit to Güzelyurt would be complete without a visit to the churches of Saint George Maronite Church or Saint Mamas Church.
